“sharing,” re-posting, or following a candidate’s or party’s account are considered as “partisan political activity” if these are resorted to as means to solicit support for or against a candidate or party during the campaign period.⁷

Given their nature, the prohibited activities may be committed not only during but also outside office hours for the duration of the campaign period. It may also be committed even outside office premises.

Meanwhile, the persons covered by the prohibition against engaging in partisan political activity are:

- a. Members of the civil service in all branches, subdivisions, instrumentalities, and agencies of the Philippine government, including government-owned or –controlled corporations with original charters, and state universities and colleges, whether their appointments are permanent, temporary, contractual, or even casual;
- b. Career officers holding political offices in an acting or officer-in-charge capacity;
- c. Uniformed and active members of the Armed Forces of the Philippines and the Philippine National Police; and
- d. Barangay officials.

The prohibition applies to these persons even when they are on leave of absence.

The commission of any of the prohibited acts is punishable by suspension of one (1) month and one (1) day to six (6) months for the first offense and dismissal from the service for the second offense.⁸

For the guidance of all concerned.
